Prayer

God our Father,
your love for our world and for each of us individually is so great that you sent Jesus, your Son, to live fully as one of us.

May he lead us to live in peace and work well with each other to build your kingdom in our world which you love so much.

May your Spirit unite us and lead us to appreciate and value all who are different from ourselves.

Amen

St Norbert, pray for us

BENEFITS OF OUTDOOR PLAY FOR POSITIVE MENTAL HEALTH

The whole school will participate in the Inter-House Athletics carnival today with the expected benefits being more than just a chance for our students to have a run around in the sun and possibly the rain!! MindMatters explains the reasons we should encourage young people to ‘get outside and get some fresh air’.

Whether for sports classes, tending the veggie patch or lunchtime free play, being outdoors has a positive effect on young people’s mental health.

A recent study led by The University of Queensland (UQ) and the ARC Centre of Excellence for Environmental Decisions (CEED) suggests that people who visit parks for 30 minutes or more each week are much less likely to have poor mental health than those who don’t.

UQ CEED researcher Dr Danielle Shanahan said we need to support and encourage community activities in natural spaces. “We’ve known for a long time that visiting parks is good for our health... Our children especially benefit from spending more time outdoors. Kids who grow up experiencing natural environments may benefit developmentally and have a heightened environmental awareness as adults,” said Shanahan.

This study supports existing research which shows strong evidence for positive associations between green space and good mental health.

A 2015 international review analysed the health benefits of green spaces in the living environment and found that the availability of parks, playgrounds and recreation areas plays an important role in wellbeing.

The review analysed the results of 19 studies in perceived mental health from The Netherlands, UK, Sweden, Lithuania, Australia, New Zealand and USA.

Some possible explanations for the mental health benefits of being outdoors include:

- providing opportunities for outdoor physical activities
- social contact and building relationships
- relaxation
- biological changes which work to reduce the stress hormone cortisol and lower blood pressure.

A UK study tracked changes in mental health over several years as people moved within urban settings. They found that when people moved to areas with more green space, including tree-lined streets, private gardens and public parks, they were happier for at least three years after their move, and that this feeling of contentment grew over time.

“There is something about natural environments that improves people’s wellbeing,” says Richard Mitchell, an epidemiologist at Glasgow University, UK.

“You perceive nature with your senses. Your brain processes those sensory experiences and triggers physiological responses.”

Incredibly, people’s perception of nature causes physiological changes, such as reducing the stress hormone cortisol and lowering blood pressure.

There is even ongoing research into using nature as an intervention for mental health care. ‘Nature-based intervention’ is founded on the evidence that exposure to the natural environment positively affects physical health and mental wellbeing.

Psychological benefits include reduced stress and anxiety, improvements to mood, increased perceived wellbeing, improved concentration and attention, and cognitive restoration.

Here are some suggestions to encourage your child to spend time outdoors:

1. Encourage participation in school and extracurricular sports held outdoors.
2. Consider outdoor locations for family activities such as national parks, botanic gardens, forests and wildlife sanctuaries. Activities may include bushwalking, wildlife watching and adventure courses.
3. Discuss the environment, recycling, conservation and wildlife to foster a curiosity and respect for nature.
4. Encourage your child to go for a walk outdoors during times of pressure such as exam time. Both exercise and nature have been shown to reduce stress and enhance cognitive abilities.

Spending time outside is hugely beneficial for young people. Nature can promote positive mental health and wellbeing and can be easily implemented in schools, for the benefit of students, teachers and the whole school community.

The Pastoral Care Team
CBD EXPLORATION
On a cold and wet August day, the Year 12 ATAR Geography class set off to explore Perth’s Central Business District, the Inner Mixed Zone and Cockburn Central’s Transit Orientated Development. In the City students analysed the growth, development and change of St George’s Tce, Hay Street Mall and Wellington Street, then crossed the Horse-Shoe Bridge into the dynamic zone of Northbridge, investigating the functions of Lake Street. After lunch on James Street, students got back on the train to Cockburn Central, where the way of future Perth residential development is unfolding in the Transit Orientated Development. Students witness the growth of mid-high density housing in close proximity to public transport and witnessed the attempt of fostering a community in this development. The day, though wet, was a great opportunity to see the real world examples of what the students are studying in their urban morphology unit of ‘Planning Sustainable Places’.

ANOTHER KILNACROTT STAR
On Sunday the 3 July, Stefan Di Rocco represented Western Australia in the 2016 Taekwondo State Championships. Stefan was in the Black Belt 2nd and 3rd Degree division and was involved in numerous bouts on the day. It was exciting to hear that Stefan was very successful in this tournament and was awarded a Silver Medal, beating some of the best fighters in the country. The photo shows Stefan (in the red) mid-fight. I’d like to congratulate Stefan on this achievement and wish him all the best for future competitions.

YEAR 10 SCIENCE
Congratulations to the following students for being selected to participate in Australian Science Olympiads; Jack DeLuis, Samuel Eaton, Michael Hegney, Bernard Masilliones and Sam Rowlands. These Year 10 students achieved outstanding results in the Big Science Competition in Term Two and were selected to take part in the next level of competition. Over two separate days they completed the Chemistry and Physics papers and answered a series of multiple choice and short answer questions.

We are eagerly waiting on the results of the competition and hopefully the dedication they have shown to the physical sciences will be reward with some sound results.

Well done boys.

CANONS BASKETBALL

YEAR 8 SPECIALISED BASKETBALL

The Year 8 Specialised Basketball students were involved in a Level 0 Basketball Umpiring Course last week. The course, run by WA Referee Development Officer, Jess Byrnes was an extensive course that involved theory and practical components and helps our students gain a broader knowledge of the game. From here, students are able to umpire Domestic level games and have the ability to move to Level 1 Accreditation.

“The umpiring course has given me a better understanding of how the game works and how referees ref the game.”

- Emily Young Free

“I thought that the course was very good as it helped me with my basketball skills as well. I now know more about the violations and fouls that the umpires call.”

- Kieran Overmans

Mr L Ford (Specialised Basketball Coordinator)
CATHOLIC PERFORMING ARTS

The Catholic Performing Arts Festival continues. Over the last two weeks we have had solo performances by our String and Woodwind students who all performed very well. Last Wednesday the Certificate II and III music students performed in the Contemporary Band section. Both performances were of a very high standard, with adjudicator Cain Turnston commenting that they were “awesome”, “on point” and “a credit” to the musicians.

The College Concert Band performs next Wednesday at Chisholm College. The following week we have 4 Dance ensembles performing at the Perth Convention and Exhibition Centre. For ticket information, please contact the Music Department.

WASO EXCURSION WITH GUEST CONDUCTOR SIMONE YOUNG

On the evening of Friday 5 August, 10 fortunate musicians from Years 7-12 and Miss Walter attended the Perth Concert Hall and had the privilege of being mesmerised and captivated by the West Australian Symphony Orchestra (WASO) conducted by Simone Young. The ensemble performed The Planets by Gustav Holst and The Rite of Spring by Igor Stravinksky. On our arrival we were presented with backstage passes entitling us to dinner before the show in the green room and VIP seating. During dinner we met viola player, Helen Tuckey, who spoke to us about the music we were about to hear, including the riot caused at the first performance of Stravinsky’s The Rite of Spring over a hundred years ago, as well as an insight into the workings of a professional orchestra. The performance that followed was truly an inspirational and phenomenal experience for all those who attended.

Telysha Lyon (Year 12)

“The entire performance was enjoyable to listen to and watch, but what I enjoyed the most was The Planets by Holst as it was very grand and thrilling especially the opening to the performance of ‘Mars - The Bringer of War’.”

- Julia Khen (Year 10)

“I really enjoyed the use of the off-stage choir at the end of Holst’s The Planets. It tied in so well with the rest of the orchestra to create a dramatic end the piece.”

- Jay Anderson (Year 12)

“I looked at the concert plan and saw how many people it was, but in real life it looked like a lot more people.”

- Benjamin Park (Year 7)

“The concert was a very new and rewarding experience for me, it gave me an appreciation for classical music and the different emotions every instrument had and presented. A great performance by a great conductor.”

- Sean Leadbetter (Year 12)
